

[illegible]

Said device comprises a central supply 1, consisting of at least one tube located in the axis of a body forming a venturi 2, and through which the fuel gas is input. The invention is characterized in that a plurality of tubes 6 is provided in annular arrangement around the central supply 1.